

Editorial

The new beginning

Vinod Kumar R. MDS

Roots Dental, Bengaluru, Karnataka, India.

*Corresponding author:

Vinod Kumar R. MDS, Roots Dental, # 35 1st Floor Alappat Building, Cunningham Road, Bengaluru, Karnataka, India.

drvinod@rootsdental.in

Received : 24 April 2021
Accepted : 24 April 2021
Published : 31 May 2021

DOI
10.25259/JRDE_1_2021

Quick Response Code:

Namaskara !!!!!

Greetings from the editorial board of JRDE. We bring the first issue of our journal with a new beginning in the history of our state chapter and specialty by launching “Journal of Restorative Dentistry and Endodontics”.

We would like to dedicate the first issue of our journal to all the pioneer teachers and seniors in the profession who have contributed so much to our specialist selflessly.

The effort from our editorial team is to bridge the gap between academicians and practitioners. We have tried to bring in a holistic approach in publishing the articles. The submission process is seamless, we follow international standards of approach for submission of articles a double-blinded review process and an excellent publishing platform. The varied dimension of our specialty that is conservative dentistry, esthetic dentistry, and endodontics, is reflected in journal name “Journal of Restorative Dentistry and Endodontics.” Thus giving a new name to our specialty.

This is a humble approach to provide a great platform for our clinicians, academicians of our state and the nation to showcase their research capabilities, and clinical skills globally. We are in the process to get the journal indexed.

This pandemic has challenged us to have a different approach toward our profession.

We request all the teachers and students to join us in this effort of our editorial team and contribute articles of international standards, par excellence in the form of the original research, case reports, reviews, and short communications.

Stay healthy, Stay safe and contribute to the glory of our specialty.

How to cite this article: Kumar RV. The new beginning. J Restor Dent Endod 2021;1(1):1.